FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1890.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Mrs. C. B. Webb is visiting friends in Louisville this week.

Mrs. J. H. Durando has gone to Ohio, where she will be absent several weeks visiting relatives.

J. W. Teyman, Jr., has resigned a position with Dow H. Merritt and accepted one with Caldwell & Randle.

Mr. E. A. Roper, of Pee Dee is representing this county in the Farmers' Alliance meeting at Lexington this week.

Mrs. Fannie B. Henry left yesterday for New Orleans to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. B. A. Wornald.

Mrs. Hinds, of Warsaw, Ind., a charming little widow who has been visiting friends in this city, left Wednesday for Cincinnati.

Mr. T. D. Jameson, Willie Forgy and wife, and Misses Annie Lloyd and Fannie Morehead, all of Pembroke, were in the city yesterday, shopping.

Hon. Jas. A. McKenzio is arranging to move his family to Chicago, where they will be located during his term of office as member of the World's Fair Commission—about four years.

Dr. W. M. Fuqua has returned from a trip to Middleborough and has decided to move to that city to practice his profession. He will return with his family as soon as he can make the necessary arrangements.

MATRIMONIAL.

Senator Blackburn's oldest daughter, Mrs. Theresa Stewart, was married to Capt. Wm. P. Hall, of the regular army, at Washington, Wednesday.

Fritz Rogers—Mr. J. Sol Fritz and Miss Mary Rogers were united in marriage at the residence of the bride's parents on North Main street at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night. The ceremony was pronounced by Rev. G. W. Lyon in a beautiful and very appropriate style. Shortly after the marriage the happy pair repaired to the home of Mr. Fritz on Walnut street, where they will reside. The bride is a daughter of Esq. P. F. Rodgers, and is a lady of much beauty and refinement, which has one for her host of friends and admirers. The groom is well known in the county, having acted in the capacity of deputy sheriff for some time, and was on the police force for several months of last year. He is a first class gentleman and extremely popular among all his acquaintances. The Kentuckian extends its best wishes to the happy pair.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Morgan Hopson, Jr. to Mattie J. Garrett.

J. Sol Fritz to Mary Rogers.

Tom Oldham to Linda Weaver.

Saloon Burglarized.

At an early hour Tuesday morning the saloon of Edmundson & Long was burglarized. The thief effected an entrance through a side window by prizing the iron bars aside. About $30 in silver was taken and several quarts of fine whisky. The firm is keeping a watch, and are pretty sure they have the thief located. No arrest has yet been made.

We call special attention to the warehouse advertisement of Messrs. Herndon & Major, Clarksville, which appears in this issue. The gentlemen composing this firm are too well known in tobacco circles for more to be said to add to their popularity. They are business men of the first water, know a good sample of tobacco when they see it, and exercise the best judgment about when to sell to the best advantage to their former customers. Mr. R. B. Withers formerly of this city, is solicitor for this substantial house. Their sales will appear among our tobacco sales regularly hereafter. Look out for them, as fancy prices are often obtained by this prosperous firm.

Tobacco Barn Insurance.

We make a specialty of insuring tobacco in barns, allowing fire for comfort of hands while stripping and prizing. Long, Winfree & Kelly.

Catarrh indicates impure blood, and to cure it, take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies the blood. Sold by all druggists.

The colored man Perkins, who was knocked from the track at Trenton by the morning express about ten days ago and badly injured, will likely recover. One arm had to be amputated and his scalp replaced. It is understood that he will bring suit against the L. & N. for a big amount. Perkins mistook the express for the accommodation, which stops at that place, and attempted to cross when the engine was only a few yards away. The pilot lifted him up and he was carried thirty or forty yards before he rolled off.

If Your House is on Fire

You put water on the burning timber, not on the smoke. And if you have caught you should attack the disease in the blood, not in your nose. Remove impure cause, and the local effect subsides. To do this, take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, which radically and permanently cures catarrh. It also strengthens the nerves. Be sure to get only Hood's Sarsaparilla.

HERE AND THERE.

Vitalia Liver Pills cure headache. W. A. McCormick is a candidate for city attorney.

R. M. Woodriddle, livery, feed & sale stable, Fritz stand. Telephone 144. An infant of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cook is very sick with bronchial pneumonia.

The day of bossism is past. The people are now capable of ruling themselves.

Mr. J. M. Hopkins is having an elegant office cut off and arranged in the east end of his lively stable.

The Kentuckian has no slate fixed up for the city election and will cheerfully support any good men placed on the ticket.

Meetings have been held in several of the wards this week to agree upon certain names to be submitted to the primaries on the 25th.

It is understood that there are two gentlemen willing to make the race for City Attorney on the Democratic ticket, viz: G. M. Bell and W. A. McCormick.

The primary election on the 25th will enable the voters to familiarize themselves with their voting places by the regular election day in December.

The New Era has kindly consented to let the Democrats of the Seventh ward hold a primary. Perhaps upon second thought it will be as considerate towards the other wards.

The Sixth ward has 140 Democratic voters and 50 Republicans. "Citizens meetings" in that ward will cause very little uneasiness among the Democrats.

M. C. Forbes in the Second and F. W. Dabney in the Fourth may be set down as two of the certain winners on the 25th. It is doubtful if they will have any opposition.

The ladies of Grace Episcopal church will give a candy pulling at Ragsdale's warehouse this evening to raise money to pay for the church organ. Admission 15 cents. Everybody invited.

Al. G. Fields' minstrels, one of the most popular companies on the road, will make their annual visit to this city on the 25th. The mere announcement is sufficient to fill the house. Al. always draws like a porous plaster.

Mr. W. B. Radford, a prominent farmer of the Longview vicinity, made an assignment this week, for the benefit of his creditors. The liabilities are $35,000; assets estimated at $50,000, consisting of farm lands and personal property.

Pension Attorney T. E. Lawson has secured a pension for Thos. W. Fletcher, son of the late Terrell Fletcher, of Crofton, amounting to $1,443. It was a back pension, which ceased when young Fletcher became 16 years of age.

So far as we have been able to learn there are not ten Democrats in the city opposed to the primaries ordered for the 25th. The action of the Auxiliary Committee has met with a general approval. The primaries will be held as ordered, the objections of disorganizers to the contrary notwithstanding.

Mr. Ben Thompson has resigned the position of Opera House manager, owing to other business that takes all his time. Mr. John B. Galbreath succeeds him and will make a very capable and efficient manager. He has had considerable experience in this kind of work and is thoroughly competent for the place.

The most important case tried this term in the Common Pleas court was the civil suit of Wheeler, Mills & Co. vs. Ragsdale & Co., for $161.98 on a warehouse settlement running through several years. The case was tried by a jury and argued by Mr. W. W. Clarke for the plaintiffs and Mr. C. H. Bush for the defendants. The jury gave the plaintiffs judgment for $20.98.

The gentlemen named in the various wards Tuesday as eligible for councilmen are not all the available timber by any means. The following additional list of citizens are eligible or could easily make themselves so if nominated: In the first ward, M. D. Kelly, Joe McCarroll; Second, W. M. Hill, John Moynan; Third, J. O. Cushman, Jas. Holeman; Fourth, Geo. O. Thompson, R. M. Anderson; Fifth, F. E. Blumenthal, B. S. Wood; Sixth, R. H. DeTreville, W. P. Winfree; Seventh, J. P. Braden, R. M. Hurt.

The City Council met in called session last night to take steps to formally accept the $2,000 bequeathed by the late Mrs. M. N. Roach for the purpose of erecting a public fountain in the city of Hopkinsville. The time for accepting the bequest expires in April next and prompt action in the matter is necessary to carry out the wishes of Mrs. Roach. The fountain will probably be located at some point on Main street and an abundant supply of good water could be obtained from the Rock spring, Dr. Gunn's well or Metcalfe's well, all of which are near by.

A GOOD THING!

To our friends and customers: We are pleased to inform you that we now have a sure cure for chills, which is perfectly sweet. It has no taste at all. It will cure any case of Chills. Quit taking the bitter Chill Tonics, and let us sell you a bottle of Pomroy's Sweet Chill Cure! Price 50 cents. One bottle is enough to cure two or three cases of Chills. Come and let us show it to you. Your Friend, BROWN LEAVELL, Hopkinsville, Ky.

An Explanation.

The editor of the KENTUCKIAN has incurred the displeasure of the New Era. Acting in the line of his duty as Chairman of the County Committee, he has ventured to appoint an auxiliary committee for the city. This was considered sufficient justification for an editorial assault upon him in an issue of this week, which questions the authority of the Chairman of the County Committee to act in the matter. The editor of the KENTUCKIAN and the other two city members of the Committee, who acted with him in the matter, represent six of the seven wards of the city. They were elected to attend to party organization in their respective districts. The Chairman himself represents two wards and a part of another and having been instructed by the County Committee to appoint any sub-committees found necessary, he deemed it his duty to take the proper steps to prevent clique-rule in the coming city election. Some weeks ago an auxiliary committee was appointed and much laborious work has been done looking to a thorough organization in the several wards. This committee, after consulting with many of the party leaders and workers, ordered primary elections for the 25th in all of the wards. They have simply tried to do their duty and in ordering the first of all methods they had no ends to subserve save the good of the party.

Complaints having been filed by the New Era with the Chairman of the State Central Committee, that official has requested the Chairman of the County Committee, whose authority in the matter he recognizes, to confer with "representative Democrats of the town and ascertain their views concerning the organization of a city committee for Hopkinsville." This step was taken in advance of the appointment of the Auxiliary Committee. The time is now too short to correspond with Gen. Castellan and explain the matter to him, which has evidently been put to him in an unfair manner. Therefore, in order to carry out the suggestions of Gen. Castellan without delay, a meeting is hereby called for to night at the court room at 7:30 o'clock. Believing that every Democrat in Hopkinsville is a "representative Democrat," the call is made to all Democrats in the city. This will afford a better opportunity than any other plan for a general conference with those who believe in party organization and especially with the "boys in the trenches," who are expected to do the voting.

SOUTH CHRISTIAN.

HOWELL, Nov. 11.—As this precinct has never been heard from, we think it our time to report.

The farmers are all through sowing wheat and are now busy gathering corn into the garner. It will not be long before they will begin to get things straight on the farm, ready to have a good time Xmas, the farmers only holiday.

Forest fires have begun to burn. All day Saturday and Sunday the woods near Mr. C. D. Ball's were on fire and although the rain Sunday night and Monday came in time to prevent much damage being done to the timber, it is a great disadvantage to those few who were in too big a hurry and killed hogs.

Some of the Olivet members are taking great interest in the protracted meeting at Mt. Hermon, and we hear, are thinking of changing their membership, should the majority not decide in favor of moving the church to Howell.

Cupid, as usual, has been in mischief. Rumor runs that some one feels left about now—can any one guess who it is? Echo answers—Lewis.

One of Howell's merchants has been trying to obtain by fair-means a guide to Oak Grove.

A certain young man visits the neighborhood too often and with too earnest intentions, we think, Ann knows it.

If the weather will permit, a crowd of young people are going hickory-nut hunting Saturday.

The schools are all in a flourishing condition but we are especially proud of Wood-Side.

And now Mr. Editor, if you are willing give this a corner in your paper; If not all I ask is, touch it to a burning taper. Zee.

TOBACCO NEWS.

LOUISVILLE TOBACCO MARKET. Published by Glover & Durand.

Sales on our market for the week just closed amount to 2,232 hhds., with receipts for the same period of 867. Hhds. Sales on our market since January last amount to 131,722. Hhds. The offerings of dark tobacco on our market continue remarkable light and the reduced offerings have a tendency to give a little more animation to the market but there is no quotable advance. Only a few hogheads of the new crop have as yet found their way to the market. The following quotations fairly represent our market for dark tobacco:

Common to Medium Lugs $1.50 to 2.00.
Dark Rich Lugs extra quality $2.00 to 4.00.
Common Leaf $3.50 to 5.50.
Medium to good leaf $5.00 to 6.50.
Good leaf extra length $5.50 to 8.50.
Wrappy Styles $8.00 to 12.00.

Syrup of figs. Produced from the laxative and nutritious juice of California figs, combined with the medicinal virtues of plants known to be most beneficial to the human system, acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds and headaches, and curing habitual constipation.

OAK GROVE.

OAK GROVE, Ky., Nov. 12.—After a recreation of two months in the vast basket, I will try one more sack at what touches my fancy, and if you will kindly commit the matter to me will give you a few items from this place.

Farmers are through seeding wheat, the weather having been propitious. The largest crop is a sw ever known in this neighborhood. The present crop of tobacco is the best we have had for years. Our corn crop is light but most everybody will have enough to get through the season with, and we are looking for better times.

Miss Mattie Garrett, daughter of our friend and neighbor Mr. E. H. Garrett, and Mr. Morgan Hopson, of Trigg county, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony on the 12th inst., at the residence of the bride's parents, Rev. S. P. Forgy officiating. We are loth to part with Miss Mattie from our social circle, but realize that such things must be and I am confident he has won for himself one who possesses all the qualities requisite for a wife. Mr. Hopson also comes under term of good report and I predict for them a bright and happy life.

Romeo.

TO MR. AND MRS. JULIEN HORD.

(BY A FRIEND.)
Your poor hearts I know are sore troubled,
Your spirits are broken and sad,
Yet one day the Savior has promised,
We shall meet our loved one again.
It was the promise said in such kind words,
"Let the little ones come unto me."
And in his warm bosom now folded,
Your beautiful little ones lie.

Kennel's dog, whose name is your treasure,
In the land of the dead lies,
And when it was read by the angels,
You thought your little one died.
Not such was the word of the father,
Not such a command did He give,
But said in sweetest compassion,
"With me, from to-day, let her live."

In joyful and happy obedience,
To the word of the Father as given,
The angels came into your household,
To guide the sweet baby to heaven.
They took her away from temptation,
From all earth's evil and strife,
To keep her unsullied forever,
At home in the beautiful life.

Through the gates of the heavenly city,
That the angels left standing ajar,
Glees the radiant spirit of little,
To the fathers and mothers afar.
And even to-day as you mourn here,
As you sit in the midst of your grief,
Her dear little arms are around you,
She is striving to give you relief.

O, mistake not I pray you God's dealings,
His mercy was great when He said,
"I will take to you bosom your treasure,
And give you the sweet baby again."
Then grieve not, but rest in His wisdom,
And believe that about you always
Is the haloed presence of angels,
It will turn your night into day.

O, why should the waiting be weary?
And why should hearts ever be sad?
When soon is that beautiful country,
We shall meet our lost one and glad;
For soft from the heavenly mansions,
To quiet our hearts when they cry,
Is wafted the sweetest of voices,
The hope of the "sweet by and by."

WONDERFUL LEAF-INSECTS.

The Most Marvelous Illustrations of Mimicry in the history of the animal kingdom.

At a recent meeting of the London Zoological Society for scientific business, Mr. Slater called attention to a specimen of a leaf-insect living in the society's insect-house, which had been received from the Seychelles and presented by Lord Walsingham. The leaf-insect, of which but few species are known, belong to the same family (Phasmodidae) as the stick-insects, and both are marvelous illustrations of mimicry in nature. They are all nocturnal in their habits, and spend their days resting on trees and bushes, the leaves of which form their food, and their resemblance, respectively, to the leaves and twigs is so extraordinary that it is not surprising that they escape the observation of their enemies. The leaf-insects are most singular; the head and part of the thorax form a stalk, while the abdomen, which is flat, thin and much dilated, exactly resembles a leaf. The legs, which are six in number, have broad, membranous appendages on the thighs, and these are especially noticeable on the fore-legs; the rest being the color of the leaf, and resting immovably, has the appearance of a leaf which has been gnawed on both sides by a caterpillar. In the insect at the Zoo this resemblance is most exact, and the illustration is distinguished by coloring, which makes it appear slightly withered at the edges. It is the habit of the insect to hang back downward, with the abdomen slightly curled up, and, to quote Mr. Murray, "this habit brings to light another beautiful resemblance for still further heightening its resemblance to a leaf. The upper surface is opaque green, the under surface glossy, glittering green, just the reverse of the effect of guava leaves so that by reversing its position, it brings the glossy side up and the dull side down." The eggs of the phasmodidae, which are few in number, are large, and covered with a horny shell, at the end of which there is a distinct operculum, and are deposited singly. The insect attains a considerable amount of development before emerging. Mr. Murray tells us that "after having reached the form of a six-legged, jointed insect, it emerges from the egg by pushing off the lid. It comes out middle foremost—that is, its head and tail are packed downward so as to meet each other. The back between these first appendages and they are drawn out next; the legs are extricated last. The color of the insect at this stage is a reddish-yellow, something of the hue of a half-dried beech leaf; for it is to be observed that the color of the insect varies at different periods of its life, it always more or less resembles a leaf at some stage. When it has once settled to eat the leaves on which it is placed, the body speedily becomes bright green." Specimens of the leaf-insect are not uncommon in collections; but after death the green color is lost, and the whole insect acquires a yellowish-brown tint, much the color of a dry leaf. Living specimens, however, are by no means common, and we believe the present species to be even less common than Phyllium sicilianum, of which, according to the late Mr. John Wood, "specimens have been hatched in England, have passed into their perfect state, and lived for some eighteen months."—London Saturday Review.

ECONOMICAL LIVING.

The Kind of People Who Will End Life at the Top of the Ladder.

One of the subjects talked and written about at a good deal at the present time is how to live cheaply. Prices of all the great staples are high. Rents are enormous. Fashions are exacting. Wants multiply while resources diminish. How to make strap and buckle most of the problems which press upon the hundreds of housekeepers. It is what is done to keep up appearances that destroys the equilibrium between outgo and income, and make life a dreary and vexatious. How to live cheaply is a question easy to answer if one will be content with a cheap living. Substitute comfort for show. Put convenience in the place of fashion. Study simplicity. Refuse to be beguiled into a style of living above what is required by your position in society and is justified by your resources. Not a fashion of simplicity, neatness, prudence and inexpensiveness, which others will be glad to follow, and thank you for introducing. Teach yourself to do without a thousand and one pretty and showy things which wealthy people purchase, and pride yourself on being just as happy without them as your rich neighbors are with theirs. Put so much dignity, sincerity, kindness, virtue and love into your simple and inexpensive home that its members will never miss the costly fripperies and showy adornments, and be happy in the way and contentment. The best comfort of life are not costly. Taste, refinement, good cheer, wit, and even elegance, are not expensive. There is no trouble about young people marrying with no outfit but health and love, and honest purpose. They will be happy and will prosper and will be the pride of their parents and will be the support of their children. They will be the support of their children. They will be the support of their children.

MUSICAL CAR HORSES.

A Critical Driver says a Word About Them and Signal Belts.

On several street-car lines in this town the signal for starting, one bell, is the same as that for stopping. In the same cars is a gong with a clock-face regular, by which the conductor keeps account of the fares collected by him. The fare gong always rings once for each passenger, and, as it is located near the stand occupied by the driver, it occurred to a reporter the other day to ask a driver how he distinguished between the conductor's stopping signal and the ring of the fare gong.

"Why," he replied, as a rule, I do not hear the fare gong at all. My attention is fixed on the signal that gives the sound that I know to be the one that has to do with moving the car."

"Then you determine your action according to the pitch of the bells you hear?"

"Certainly. I know the difference in quality and the pitch of the tones, and so do the horses. Do you know, the horses would never start from hearing the ring of the fare gong. They know the starting gong by its tone alone, and that they obey. It takes a good horse about three days to get used to the signal, but sometimes we get horses that run over the streets for three months before getting accustomed to the signals of the conductors."

Besides them there are horses that do not seem to have the capability of learning either the pitch of the bells or the rhythm in which they are sounded. I tell you that horses are just like human beings. They have different capacities, and if they are not naturally musical they drag along month after month, pulling the cars, and starting when they should not, and stopping when they should go forward, and never dropping into any understanding of the signals of the route. It all comes down to a musical apprehension of the tones sounded. From this it comes that some car horses are done up in a year, and others last fifteen years. The more intelligent they are the longer they last."—N. Y. Sun.

A WONDERFUL RIDE.

From Mendoza to Chill Through Epallata on a Mule.

The passage of the Andes in February, when the snow has disappeared from the lower mountain slopes and the river levels are lowest. From April to November snow-storms are constantly met with, the bridge paths are slippery and the discomforts and perils of the journey are multiplied. Mountaineers and mail-carriers make the passage even in the most inclement weeks of winter, traveling on foot over the rugged peaks and the snow-covered slopes of the Andes. The scenery in the winter, when the abysses are ingulfed with snow and the rugged mountain walls are incased in ice, must be of unrivaled grandeur, but a prudent traveler will be content to make the journey in mid-summer. Even when the road is dry there is a constant source of danger, since a mule, with characteristic perversity, persists in traveling along the outer edge of the slope on the edges of the precipices, and it is unsafe, as well as useless, to attempt to make him swerve from his self-regulated course. When the road is covered over with ice one must be a hardy mountaineer in order to rise superior to the perils of precipitous chasms and deeply-sunken river bottoms. The sense of loneliness increases, moreover, when a few travelers are on the highway, and one is confronted with the solitary stillness and gloomy grandeur of the Andes. In the mid-summer the passing of mule trains imparts animation and variety to the journey. The picturesque ponchos I regret to say that the mail-carriers have been largely replaced by a cheap and inferior European, an imitation sleeveless shawl-cape, and the bright fantastic patterns of the neck-gear worn by the guides and mountaineers add a welcome touch to the barren edges of the high-altitude. When fellow-travelers are met it is a sudden refreshing contact of human companionship. Smiles and "buenos dias" are exchanged, and the file of the cavalcade is broken as it disappears in the zig-zag of the road. Human society is all the more welcome from the absence of animal life in the mountains. I heard the twitter of only one bird in the course of the five days' ride. That was a wee thing, only half as large as a swallow. The guide-book represents condors as perched on the heights of the most dangerous passes, where a traveler will be pitched head-down a thousand feet into a cold, icy stream, or, worse, into a yawning chasm. The condor, however, is a mythical creature, and the only one that is seen is a small, brown, downy bird, which has followed me all the way from the Rio de la Platte and across the continent. It is a curious bird, eager at all times to strike to the very marrow of human bones.—Cor. N. Y. Tribune.

JEWELLED REPTILES.

Cobras Use a Phosphorescent Stone as a Decoy for Fire-Flies.

The natives of the jungle say some cobras carry precious stones with them and at night coil in the grass to watch the glitter. Prof. Hensold, the Indian traveler, says one night a native called me to see this wonder. Close to the water's edge stood an immense tamarind tree and within fifty yards of it the cobra halted and mysteriously disappeared to the root of the tree. A spot from the trunk I observed in the darkness a greenish light, apparently proceeding from a single point. After a time I could see the cobra coiled near the foot of the tree, slowly swaying its head to and fro in front of the shining object. Unfortunately the professor had no gun, and his guide, who seemed to feel that he was responsible for his master's safety, entreated him so earnestly to let the snake alone that he acceded. Moreover, he promised to procure this stone within three days. The cobra kept his word, for the second morning afterward he brought the stone. He had climbed the tamarind tree before dark, and after the snake had taken up his position he had emptied a bag of ashes upon the stone. The frightened reptile, after chasing about for awhile trying to find its treasure, had gone off. The cobra remained in his safe position until daybreak, when he descended the tree, dug the stone out of the ashes, and delivered it to the professor.

The cobra stone was a semi-transparent, water-wornish piece of color, about the size of a large pea, which, in the dark, when previously warmed, emitted a greenish phosphorescent light.

"The mystery is not difficult to explain," adds the cobra expert. "Cobras feed on insects, and seem to have a special liking for fire-flies. Only the male fire-flies fly about, and a cobra observer will notice that a constant swarm of the male insects will fly near the females, which sit on the ground and emit an intermittent glowing light. The cobra uses his phosphorescent stone as a decoy for the fire-flies. Competition would lead to the snake seizing and carrying off the fire-flies, which has become hereditary."—Nature.

Scrofula

Is the most ancient and most general of all diseases. Scrofula is finally entirely free from it, while thousands everywhere are its suffering slaves. Hood's Sarsaparilla has had remarkable success in curing every form of scrofula. The most severe and painful running sores, swellings in the neck or groin, humor in the eyes, causing partial or total blindness, yield to the powerful effects of this medicine. It thoroughly removes every trace of impurity from the blood and builds up the weakened system.

"My little daughter's life was saved, as we believe, by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before she was six months old she had 7 running scrofula sores. One physician advised the amputation of one of her legs, to which we refused assent. When we began giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla, a marked improvement was noticed and by a continued use of it her recovery was complete. And she is now, being seven years old, strong and healthy." B. C. JONES, Ains, Lincoln County, Me. N. B. Be sure to get Hood's.
